

JUDGE REJECTS MINERS' PLEA: STREET LIGHTING CURTAILED

Vaughn Orders 230 Lamps Out By 10:30 P. M.

Mayor Acts Quickly to Conserve Fuel
After Receiving Lausche Request;
Most Mansfield Signs Dark.

John L. Lewis is, figuratively, going to turn off more than two-thirds of Mansfield's white-way lights tonight. Some 230 of the city's 335 white-way lamps will go out at 10:30 p. m., instead of midnight in compliance with an order issued by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn.

The mayor's power-saving order followed receipt of an 11-point proclamation drawn by Gov. Frank J. Lausche which orders the dosing of white-way lights not necessary for public safety.

The mayor's order means that an hour and a half's worth of power to more than 200 lights will be conserved each night. Mayor Vaughn said the off-time will be increased if necessary.

Still left burning all night will be some 100 other white-way lights which the mayor said can't be shut off without endangering the safety of the city.

Vaughn said he has officially endorsed Lausche's proclamation which forbids the use of electricity for anything but essential services.

Asks Cooperation.

He said he is calling upon all of Mansfield to cooperate with the governor's plan which drastically limits use of most types of lighting and electrically-driven air conditioning equipment.

The governor's order is aimed mainly at lighting used for advertising purposes, but permits outdoor and indoor lights which aid in the work of police and firemen from a direction-finding or identification standpoint.

It also permits doctors' offices and hotels and other public lodging places to display identification lights not in excess of 60 watts.

By last night, most Mansfield stores and industries had turned off non-essential lights, although a few advertising signs still burned, including eight in a two-block area on Park avenue west.

GAS PIPELINE TO BENEFIT CITY

The Federal Power commission's authorization today of a $3,370,000 enlargement of the Ohio Fuel Gas company transmission system will prove of "indirect benefit" to Mansfield, a company official in Columbus informed the News-Journal today.

He said about 88 miles of 16-inch gas transmission lines would be constructed in Lorain, Fairfield, Licking and Knox counties.

In addition, an underground natural gas store project will be built in Lorain and Medina counties, and a 2,000-horsepower compressor station will be constructed in Lorain county.

He said that probably not more than 25 miles of pipe will be built this winter, because of steel shortages. The compressor station may not be completed before the end of winter.

The pipeline, to be used for transporting natural gas from the Texas gas fields, will start at Point Pleasant, W. Va., and extend up through the center of the state.

The project will facilitate delivery of natural gas at peak periods during 1947.

MAYOR MOVES TO CENTRALIZE CITY'S BUYING

Urges Council to Create New Clerk's Post; Cites Need For Purchasing Agent.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said today he would recommend that city council employ an additional clerk for the service-safety director's office as the first step toward setting up a city purchasing department.

Because the city now lacks such a department, Vaughn said purchases are made "piece-meal" and accurate checks on them are sometimes difficult.

Various offices of the city would coordinate purchases through the new department, he said. Such a department is essential, the mayor said, and would result in saving the city money and materials.

Citing the expanded duties of the service-safety office as another main reason for the need for a new employee, Vaughn said he will ask that the appointment be made effective Jan. 1.

City Growth Cited.
He said the duties and demands of that office have expanded through the years through normal growth of the city and "due to a current era of unprecedented expansion and growth."

Some of the city's major projects which Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow must direct include the $2,000,000 airport, still in its final stages of construction, and the $1,000,000 Clear Fork reservoir, construction of which is underway.

He must also oversee a planned improvement in garbage and ash collection service, a proposed flood control program and the construction of at least two new fire houses in the near future.

In addition, Enlow coordinates the normal activities of virtually every other city department, including that of police and fire, many of which recently have been expanded in scope and personnel, Vaughn said.

Boat Blazes Aboard Truck, Potts Injured

Victim of a freak accident, Fletcher B. Potts, 13 West Arch street, was in a Georgia hospital today with a fractured vertebrae.

Potts was accompanying Edwin Malone, of the Malone Plumbing company, North Main street, to Florida when fire broke out in some blankets that had been placed in a boat being carried in a truck.

Potts is an employee of the company. Friends who returned last night from a visit to Coleman hospital at Eastman, Ga., where Potts is confined, said they learned he fell from the truck Nov. 9 while trying to toss the burning blankets from the boat.

His visitors included: James Deakin, 176 South Franklin avenue; John Wood, 20 Junction street; and Ora Kaylor, 13 West Arch street.

Religious Rites, Family Reunions to Top Tranksgiving Observance In City, County

Religious services and family homecomings around the dinner table will highlight the Thanksgiving observance in Mansfield and Richland county tomorrow as thousands of city and county residents pause to consider the blessings 1946 has brought them.

Most industries and business places and public offices will be closed to give workers a holiday. City and county schools were to close late this afternoon until Monday morning, giving teachers and pupils a four-day holiday.

The Mansfield post office will be closed all day. Normal holiday collections will be made: business at 9 a. m., 3:30 and 8 p. m.; residential at 1 p. m. Only special delivery and residential parcel post deliveries will be made.

Mansfield's 'Operation Tomorrow' Strategy Campaign to Open Friday

Opening strategy in Mansfield's "Operation Tomorrow" will be laid Friday when the Citizens Council on Social Survey meets in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room at 8 p. m.

"Operation Tomorrow" is designed to give Mansfield one of the finest youth and social agency programs anywhere in the country.

It will include new or improved facilities for YMCA, YWCA, Girl Scouts, Friendly House and the Salvation Army.

Total cost may run to $800,000, but the plans to move forward on a carefully worked out program of fund raising, building, and renovation.

Friday night the executive committee is expected to make its recommendations for the first drive and to outline its general plans to the council of more than 50 representative citizens.

The council will be asked to act on the recommendations. If they are approved, and O. K. from the Public Appeals review board will be sought immediately. It is hoped that the first campaign will be in full swing within two weeks.

Building and financial plans have already been submitted to the executive committee by the five agencies. The plans have been studied in detail. Recommendations will be based on this study.

The agencies as well as business, industry, philanthropic groups and private citizens are represented on the council. Their action originated with a survey of Mansfield's social agencies financed by the Manufacturers' club of the Chamber of Commerce and made by Donald E. Hagan of Western Reserve university in consultation with Leonard W. Mayo and Holace G. Roberts.

"We offered and extended to him every right given to him by law and never made any attempt to take any of his rights away from him."

"The company, we believe, has established a policy of fair dealing with its employees. Our relations with Hultman have been no exception to this established policy."

"Hultman is a disgruntled former employee."

WYATT SEEKS BACKING FOR HOUSING PLAN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Associates of Wilson W. Wyatt said today he may resign as housing expediter unless he gets solid backing from President Truman on his veterans housing program.

The showdown may come today at a scheduled White House conference between Wyatt and Mr. Truman.

Wyatt was hoping for strong presidential support. If he does not get it, his friends said privately, Wyatt probably will quit the government. He has a lucrative law practice awaiting him in Louisville, Ky.

On Mr. Truman's desk for a week has been a report from the new steps to produce low-priced homes for veterans under the newly-free economy.

The president asked for the report when he junked price controls—including those on building materials—on Nov. 9. Wyatt hoped to get his reaction today.

Wyatt went to the White House with strong endorsement from Sen. Glen Taylor, D. Ida., who urged Mr. Truman in a letter to "re-affirm, in the strongest possible language," emergency powers of the expediter.

Taylor said the reconstruction finance corporation has defied Wyatt's authority in refusing to make loans he recommended to prospective builders of industrialized houses.

EPIDEMIC KILLS 10 NEW-BORN INFANTS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—(AP)—Health authorities today sought the cause of an outbreak of intestinal disease among babies which brought death to 10 new-born infants in the Wilkes-Barre area.

Authorities said that 21 of the 31 babies who contracted the disease, including all of the dead, were born in Nesbit Memorial hospital at nearby Kingston. The malady was diagnosed as intestinal diarrhea by Dr. J. T. Millington, Luzerne county medical director of the state health department.

AFL Counsel Cites Congressional Act
Restricting Labor Injunctions In Defense of Mine Union Boss.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough today rejected the United Mine Workers' arguments that he had no authority to issue a restraining order against the national coal strike.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough today rejected the United Mine Workers' arguments that he had no authority to issue a restraining order against the national coal strike.

Lewis earlier challenged the right of a federal court to try him for contempt in the soft coal strike, citing a congressional act restricting the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

Joseph Padway, general counsel for the American Federation of labor, appeared in Lewis' behalf for the first time. He promptly cited the Norris-La Guardia Act in opening arguments for dismissal of the case.

"If the Norris-La Guardia Act is applicable, then this court had no right to issue the contempt ruling," Padway declared.

Padway arose after Judge T. Alan Goldsborough decided that the question of dismissing the contempt citation against the United Mine Workers' president should be taken up first.

Lewis sat stolidly behind a battery of union lawyers. At issue was whether he should be punished for permitting his 400,000 soft coal miners to quit work last Wednesday, despite a court order.

The small courtroom was so crowded that only 12 spectators were able to find seats. Hundreds of disappointed curiosity seekers were left outside in the corridors.

Consider Jury Trial.
Goldsborough announced it had been suggested that Lewis "might be entitled to the right" of a regular jury trial. Accordingly, the judge said he was considering empaneling a jury with full power to convict or acquit the union chief.

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sweeney, chief government counsel, quickly told the court the government contends Lewis has no such right.

Previously, Goldsborough had ordered that the jury be merely advisory. On that basis he either could adopt or reject its verdict as he chose.

Selection of a jury was delayed, however, by the arguments on whether the case should be thrown out.

After relating how the Norris-La Guardia act had been drawn by congress specifically to protect unions from being deprived of their economic weapons through restraining orders and injunctions, Padway called attention to Goldsborough's stop-strike order served on Lewis November 18.

Some schools and colleges extended the Thanksgiving recess to conserve coal.

Agriculture department officials said a prolonged coal strike, crippling transportation and food processing plants, would endanger the food supplies, particularly for big cities.

The Solid Fuels Administration reported in Washington that six days after most soft coal mines had shut down, 137 mines still operated today in Ohio, producing 35,585 tons daily and employing 2,703 men.

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

WEST POINT, N. Y.

(AP)—Glenn (Junior) Davis, Army's one-man athletic squad, likely will make a few Madison Square Garden appearances this winter—but not as a member of the basketball team on which he played last winter. . . . Davis, top-ranked sprinter, is going out to the track team while Coach Stu Holcomb goes out for more height on his cage squad. Holcomb will inherit a good bit of material from the football squad—Arnold Tucker, basketball captain and as good a leader on the hardwood as he is a quarterback on the gridiron; tall Jim Rawers and Bob Folsom all were regulars last winter while Hank Foldberg, Plebe Arnold Galiffa and Bill Yeomans may join them on the varsity.

ALL WORK, NO PLAY.

While Earl Blaik only gets an hour and a half, at the most, to drill his Army footballers each afternoon, he figures there are some advantages in that schedule. . . . "With our schedule, the team could easily be over-footballed," Blaik explains, "but our only chance for a squad meeting is Sunday morning after church. . . . we don't bore them with too much football. It's the coaches who get too much work."

QUOTE, UNQUOTE.

Ray Swartz, Navy assistant coach, "In football coaching, some years you win games; other years you build character. The trouble at Annapolis is that we don't have enough of those characters."

BOB RONDY NAMED TO INS SECOND ALL-OHIO TEAM

HORVATH EDGES RALPH MAJORS FOR THIRD CLUB

Ollie Cline, Dave Boals Get Honorable Mention.

By JOHN BARRINGTON

COLUMBUS—(INS)—

Nine schools—only six of them ranked among the state's top ten schoolboy eleven—won places today on the 1948 International News Service All-Ohio high school team.

Only two schools, Toledo Waite's claimants to the mythical state championship and undefeated Lima Central, placed more than one player on the first team as chosen by sports writers and coaches.

Waite placed Bill Gregus at fullback and Elmer Scallish at a tackle position. Gregus polled the highest total vote of any player to win appointment as honorary captain of the team.

Lima Central was represented by Bill Sharp, flashy halfback, and Bob Brckman, husky guard.

The only repeater from the 1945 INS all-star eleven was Ralph Pucci, Canton McKinley's brilliant halfback. Pucci scored 135 points for McKinley this year.

to establish himself as a worthy cornerstone for any "dream" backfield.

Along with Gregus, Sharp and Pucci the backfield lists Emery Cisma, the wily lad who bore the brunt of Cleveland Cathedral Latin's mighty offense.

Three teams that had only indifferent success during the season placed individuals on the stellar aggregation. Youngstown East contributed its rugged center, Dick Sulick. From East Liverpool came Tom Bell as running mate to Brckman at guard. And Lima South's Ed Basinger had a substantial edge at an end position.

Teaming with Basinger on the flank was Hugh O'Brien, whose patented end-around ball carrying stunt made him a fifth man in Steubenville Central Catholics backfield. O'Brien counted 50 points during the unbeaten Central season from his end position.

Nick Balkovac, kingpin of another undefeated club, Youngstown Woodrow Wilson, was a snuff fit in the eleven first team berth. He was spotted at tackle along with Scallish.

For the second team guard posts, the experts singled out Newark's rugged young man with the repeating name John John, and Mansfield's Bob Rondy. Jim Bartlett of Cincinnati Elder nosed out Bellaire's Danieles for the center slot.

An abundance of fullback talent forced the selectors to do some juggling in their team backfield positions in order to include such stars as Ironton's Dick Boykin, Hamilton's Joe Nuxhall, Upper Sandusky's Gene Rife and Mansfield's Kenny Horvath. All are normally fullbacks.

Horvath, like Blubaugh, might have gone higher in the voting had not an injury placed him on the shelf prematurely. As it was Horvath nosed out his teammate Ralph Majors, for a third team spot.

Admirals Defeat Sullivan, 59-9

SULLIVAN — Forward Virgil Smith and Center Herb Brown led the Perrysville Admirals to a decisive 59 to 9, triumph over Sullivan, here last night.

Smith accounted for 10 fielders and two free tosses for 22 points while Brown split the nets for eight baskets and four foul shots for 20 points.

In the reserve game Donald Zody led the Perrysville five to a 42 to 4, win when he sank 10 shots for 20 points.

PHILADELPHIA—Bob Montgomery, 135 Philadelphia knocked out Wesley Mounzon, 132, Philadelphia 8 (title).

PRESENT VFW CHARITY BOXING SHOW TONIGHT

First annual VFW Christmas charity fight show will attract many Richland county fight fans to the Armory tonight. The card, which includes 37 rounds of boxing, is scheduled to begin at 8:15.

Tom Posa, jr., VFW fight chairman, announced this morning that reserve seat tickets are still available and that general admission seats would go on sale tonight at the Armory.

Four Mansfielders—Paul Carbetta, Dick Alexander, Joe Brown and Gale Frye—are on the card. Carbetta, a featherweight, goes against Paul Chaney, Delaware, in the headline eight-rounder. Paul has won 19 of 22 pro fights.

Alexander, welter, and Brown, heavy, are also matched in eight-round melees. Alexander has drawn Lefty Lou Williams, Dayton, while Brown will battle Joe Cysak, rugged Cleveland.

Dick has won seven straight "money" bouts while Brown has copied three straight since moving to Mansfield.

Frye, a lightweight, comes up against Johnny Ross, Massillon, in a four-round supporting match. Welterweights Woody Lowden, Columbus, and Johnny Bryant, Massillon, battle over the six-round route.

Crackerjack Tibbs and Deadpan Sammy Adams open the card in a three-rounder.

A portion of the proceeds will go to the VFW Children's Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich.

Norm Henline Fashions New Cage Combine

Coach Norm Henline is rebuilding his 1946-47 Johnny Applesed junior high school basketball team from scratch.

First ten members of last year's Pioneer hardwood team moved to Senior high school, leaving Henline with the reserve squad from which to fashion his varsity for this season. Howard Tipper, ace quarterback, is the leading contender for a place on the first quintet.

Other ninth grade hopefuls are Dick Alexander, Jim Anderson, Charles Marchant Jack Barga-chaser, Ed Schmidt, Bob Busch, Louis Burnell, Jim Geiger, Larry Goldsmith and Jim Rubino.

All but Rubino were members of the Applesed football squad which won four, tied one and lost one. Rubino did not play basketball last year because of an injury. He has been looking good on offense and defense.

Eighth graders out for the squad are Dick Harmon, Bill Reale, Fritz Haring, Jim Ogden, Malcolm Erich, Donald Tallman, Ted Falls and John McIntire.

Henline announced that boys interested can still try out for the team. He has been holding try-outs in his daily gym classes.

Seventh graders who have been looking good in early practice periods are Fred Zahn, Joe Deimer, Steve Henkel, Bob Stauffer, Bill Jamison and Bill Montgomery.

Zahn led the grade schools in scoring last season. Henline will announce the basketball schedule later as there are still several games pending.

SHELBY—After leading almost the entire game, the Shelby Whippets were unable to hold off a Fostoria rally in the closing minutes here Tuesday night and lost their opening cage contest, 29 to 26, before a near capacity crowd of 800 persons.

Coach Charles Williams' quintet led 6 to 4 at the end of the first period, 19 to 12 at the half and 23 to 19 going into the final stanza. Fostoria took over the lead four minutes before the game ended.

Center Jim Williams, Fostoria, was the leading scorer with five field goals and two free throws for a total of 12 points. Dick Seitz, Shelby, scored 11 points. The Whippets will travel to Mansfield Madison on Dec. 6 for their next game.

Lexington, Butler Lead County Cage Loop

Lexington and Butler took over first place in the Richland county basketball league by recording their second loop victories last night.

Lexington breezed by Shiloh, 46 to 23, while Butler handed Plymouth its first defeat of the campaign on the Plymouth court, 47 to 30. Bellville has a chance to tie for the top tonight at Ontario Union goes to Lucas in the other game tonight.

Shiloh, playing on its home court, gave the taller Lexington quintet quite a tussle in the first half. The Shiloh lads held the lead at three different times and were in the van at the end of the first period, 8 to 7. Lexington took over at the half, 19-18.

However, the third quarter changed the complexion of the game as John Rees' Minutemen piled up a 36-20 advantage. Rollin Ford poured 21 points through the mesh to lead the scorers while Jim Reynolds was high for the losers with 10.

Thirty-seven personals were called but neither team showed any accuracy from the gratis line. Lexington made 10 of 29 free tosses and Shiloh five of 17.

Lexington won the reserve game 42-15. Don Follett had 11 points and Richard Dill, nine.

Doug Weber and Estley Maglott connected for 31 points to lead Butler to its victory over Plymouth. Hampton and Vanderbit had 23 of the losers' points.

The teams battled on even terms during the first half with the score tied at the quarter, 9-9, and at the half 17-17. Butler moved in the van 28-21 at the third period intermission.

Butler won the reserve game, with Henry Perry getting 13 points. Lexington G. F. T. Shiloh G. F. T.

DURT INDICTS NICKEL ON 470 FRAUD COUNTS

Age Increases Bail on All Connected With Swindle.

NEW YORK—(AP)—W. Arthur
Nickel, $100-a-week bookkeeper, lay stood under indictment on 470 counts.

Indictments totaling 470 counts were handed up by a Kings county grand jury yesterday in the $734,000 Mergenthaler Linotype company swindle, described by Judge Louis Goldstein as the "most gigantic fraud" in the history of Brooklyn.

Indicted were Nickel, and his aged accomplices, Irving Rapport, Irving (Izzy the Eel)
Ben and Julius Lobell, alias Sam Collins.

Judge Goldstein, on his own initiative, jumped the bail for the accused quartet to figures reaching the size of the swindle.

For Nickel bail was raised from $10,000 to $150,000; for Rapport and Lobell from $25,000 to $50,000 and for Cohen, from $25-to $100,000.

Joseph Millstein, 47, was not among those indicted today. At the quest of District Attorney Mcmald, the November grand jury held over to continue the investigation of the swindle.

Apparently unperturbed by the indictments he wore into court, Nickel was smiling when he appeared but quickly sobered as he and Judge Goldstein declare at the huge fraud could not be accomplished without part in the alleged conspiracy.

Nickel was mentioned in every one of the counts in the indictment. Against him are 156 counts of first-degree grand larceny and 314 counts of forgery.

Also indicted was the Ultima Lith Corporation, which subtracted war orders from the Mergenthaler company. The company was headed by Rappaport, who is also under federal indictment in Washington on charges of fraud in negotiations.
Rappaport, an ex-convict, was indicted to have placed Nickel on payroll for $100 a week during the period the Ultima company was subcontracting from Mergenthaler. In return, Nickel made checks advancing Rappaport money he needed to continue operating.

The role of Lobell or Collins in the huge swindle is as yet undisclosed. Also an ex-convict, and a friend of actress Sally Haines who has been questioned at length by FBI, Lobell had a previous conviction as a Broadway and Hollywood sharpster.

Russian Government Bosses All Business and Industry

(Third of five articles about Russian life and government and business organization.)

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW—(AP)—In the USSR
the people own all businesses, and the government, as a government of the people, operates all business.

There is no such thing as a man in private business, as he is known in the United States, and there is not likely to be any.

There is no such thing as a privately owned public utility.
They belong to the people and are operated by the state at cheap rates.

This means the state operates all railways, busses, streetcars, gas and electricity plants, telephones and water works.

One of the great aims of the Soviets is to bring electricity to every family, whether it lives in a village in the Arctic waste or in a cabin in the high Pamirs. The war greatly disrupted the work, but thousands upon thousands of villages do have electricity. All towns and cities have it at varying rates, all very low. A family with a two-room apartment pays about $1.50 for a month's service.

Bills are sent out monthly and are paid at special offices.

Electricity was rationed during the war and is still rationed. If a Russian goes over his limit he has to pay a fine, which is roughly double his bill.

Soviet citizens have both plant and natural gas—both very cheap.
A family paying about $1 to $1.50
a month for the service.

Water Supply's Cheap.

Water is one of the cheapest items in the country. A family with a two-room apartment pays about 50 cents to $1 at most for a month's supply. All apartments and houses in cities have water.
Thousands of towns have it, but in villages it comes from wells and springs.

A telephone costs about 80 cents monthly for private service. Large numbers of people do not have private phones, and the usual case is for several families to share one phone. They split the cost.

Shoe shiners and taxi drivers come ashore as any to being private operators, but they are far from the rugged individualists in America private business.

Shoe shine stand operators belong to a cartel or trust. They draw their supplies from the trusts and pay a stipulated percentage of their earnings back to these trusts. There are no private shiners.

There are shoemakers and dressmakers, but these people are not individual capitalists. They pay a definite tax, buy their materials, and make returns even though they operate from their homes.

Of course, if you know a woman adept with the needle and you take her a piece of cloth and a pattern and she knocks you out a suit or dress, the money is hers.
Such dressmakers, however, have a regular job and any extra-curricula activities are carried out definitely in spare time.

State Operates Stores.

Moscow's biggest stores are operated by the state. They have managers, scores of clerks, cashiers, bookkeepers who draw state salaries.

Stores which do some of the biggest business are known as "commercial food stores." These are state-operated grocery stores selling foodstuffs at prices higher than ration stores.

Then there are so-called "commission stores," a sort of pawn shop. If you want to sell your suit you go to one of these stores. The manager of the suit department makes an appraisal at the price for which he thinks he can sell it.

If you agree, he takes the suit and gives you a receipt. When he sells it he takes the state's percentage for the transaction, and you get the rest.

Then there are "closed shops," operated for special societies, clubs or organizations whose members operate them. You have to be a member to buy in one of these,
but they are very few in number.

There are also consumer cooperatives which are going to have hundreds of stores in cities and will compete directly with the state stores. They will not be allowed to sell at higher prices than state stores, but if they can sell for less, they are going to get a lot of business.

Great plans are being made for these. They already operate very broadly in villages throughout the country, much like cooperatives in many other countries. They receive a charter from the central union. To buy in a cooperative store you become a member. Membership is set at a specific figure, and one is free to belong or not.

All great factories in Russia are operated by the state through trusts which get their authority from various ministries. They have factory managers and foremen just as in the United States. These men are paid salaries, with a sliding scale for good production and savings. Generally a good factory manager can earn lots of money —but he better be good and stay good. The state demands excellent production.

FFA-FHA UNITE FOR PARENT'S DINNER MONDAY
Tiro Club Members Take Part in Presenting Program.
TIRO—More than 125 attended the parents banquet of the Tiro chapters, Future Farmers of America and Future Homemakers of America Monday night in the school auditorium. The two organizations were hosts to parents and friends at the dinner prepared and served by girls of the home economics classes.
The program was presented with local FFA boys and FHA girls taking part along with FFA officials, and B. T. Sandals, director of the Ohio State Fair.
Sandles J. Baker, conservation district technician, addressed the crowd, with George Cole, president of the local FFA, presiding as toastmaster.
Rev. Kenneth Stover, pastor of the Tiro Evangelical and United Brethren church, gave the invocation. Ruth Bevier, president of the FFA, welcomed the parents and presented Mrs. George Cole, FFA club mother. Lynn Bradley responded for the parents.
FFA Officials Ross Eckstein, Marlin Cole, Elwood Fried and Walter Burk joined with Toastmaster Cole in an impressive ceremony presenting honorary memberships to Superintendent Dale Kinney and Custodian Charles Newell.
Other visitors introduced were: Philip Shober of McCutchensville, FFA national secretary; Alfred Swerlein of McCutchensville, sectional vice president; Robert Clymer, local vocational agricultural teacher, and John Baker, soil conservation technician of Bucyrus.

ASHLAND SEEKS UNIFORM CODES
ASHLAND — With copies of milk, restaurant and plumbing codes from nearby cities as guides, Ashland city council plans to make a study of them as a pattern for uniformity of standards in Ashland. States codes will also be used in the study.
The study is being made at the suggestion of Dr. C. B. Meuser, Ashland city health commissioner. Council has asked Mayor Glenn B. Haller to obtain codes from Mansfield, Shelby, and Wooster to aid the members.
Dr. Meuser, at a recessed meeting of council, urged an ordinance establishing standards for milk production and restaurants. He explained that codes covering them would not become effective for a year after passage. This, he said, would give plenty of time for restaurant proprietors and milk producers to come up to the standards.
Two Ashland plumbers appeared before council to urge early adoption of a standard plumbing code for the city.

Officers Election At Grange Friday
MILLERSBURG—Pomona Master M. L. Casey announces that the regular election of officers for Holmes county Pomona Grange will take place at Hardy Grange hall in Millersburg Friday night.
Casey said that at this meeting the Pomona body will consider resolutions for legislative enactment to be forwarded to the Ohio State Grange in December.

VETERAN HIRED
GALION—At a special meeting of the Galion board of education this week, J. L. Kinsey was added to the janitorial staff of the Galion public schools. Kinsey is a veteran of the war, with three years' service with the Marines in the South Pacific.

PICKED MEN
GOOD PAY AND EXPENSES
If you can measure up to the standards of the peacetime Regular Army, you now have an unusual opportunity. By enlisting for 3 years you can choose one of the famous fighting divisions now on occupation duty in Japan and Korea.
The divisions in which you can enlist include such outstanding units as the 1st Cavalry Division, 6th Infantry Division, 7th Infantry Division, 24th Infantry Division and 25th Infantry Division, each of which had a great battle record during the war.

OPPORTUNITY FOR ENGINEER OR DESIGNER
We have an excellent job with a small engineering group that has unlimited possibilities for advancement. Experience with the design of aluminum sheet metal parts, aircraft or commercial is necessary. We would particularly welcome any experience with industrial design or styling although this is not necessary.
Your work will be mainly on the drawing board with some liaison with the shop. The salary will be good to start with—advancement in accordance with an established pay plan and merit raises in addition. If your work is outstanding, this job is open not because of expansion and promotion of our personnel.
Our employees know of this ad, and your reply will be held in strict confidence. No inquiries will be made without your approval. The company is located in the vicinity of Mansfield.

STRIPED CHIPMUNK IS ENVIED

Envy is the cause of the trouble in the Great World. It always has been. It appears that it always will be. Man envies his fellow man. Small nations envy the great nations. The great nations envy each other. To possess that which another has not is to arouse envy.

Striped Chipmunk, smallest of the Squirrel cousins, was envied. Yes, sir, he was envied. Who by? Why, by his own cousins, Happy Jack the Gray Squirrel, Rusty the Fox Squirrel and Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He was envied because he has something that none of the others have—pockets.

Meeting him with those pockets empty you wouldn't know he had any. You wouldn't even suspect it. Meeting him with those pockets filled you would know instantly that he has pockets and big ones. That is why you would if you didn't think he had the mumps. That is because those pockets are in his cheeks, one in each cheek. "It isn't fair," grumbled Happy Jack as he watched his small cousin hurry away with his pockets full.

"What isn't fair?" asked Peter Rabbit.

"Do you know how many fat hickory nuts that fellow is carrying?" asked Happy Jack, who is twice as big as Striped Chipmunk.

"No," said Peter. "How many?"

"Five, two in each pocket and one in his teeth. I counted them," replied Happy Jack.

"Well, what of it?" asked Peter.

"It isn't fair," repeated Happy Jack. "No, sir, it isn't fair. None of the rest of us can carry more than one at a time. There goes Cousin Rusty now and you can see for yourself that he is carrying only one. I wish I had pockets in my cheeks. I do so."

Striped Chipmunk returned and began running about this way and that, pulling over brown leaves, looking under and behind sticks and small heaps of brush, wherever a fat hickory nut might have fallen or rolled into hiding. Happy Jack tried to drive him away but his small cousin was too sly for him, dodging out of his reach and when Happy Jack gave up, resuming his search for nuts.

He found one near where Peter was sitting. He picked it up and turned it over in his paws, sitting up right in front of Peter. Now on one end of a hickory nut is a hard sharp little point. Striped Chipmunk bit this off.

"Why did you do that?" asked Peter.

"So this nut won't hurt my cheek as it would if it still had that sharp point," replied Striped Chipmunk, popping the nut into one of his pockets.

Of course, that swelled that cheek out and the little Squirrel looked as if he had the mumps on one side. A moment later he found another nut. He bit the point from this and popped it into the other cheek. The third nut he pushed into the pocket with the first one and again his face was one-sided. The fourth one went into the other pocket and both sides of his face looked alike then, but he was a funny sight. Yes, sir, he was so.

"He has a swelled head," chuckled Peter.

But the other nut hunters didn't chuckle. They saw nothing funny about it. They glared after their small cousin disappearing toward the old stone wall beneath which was his home.

"When you said it isn't fair you said something," barked Chatterer to his big cousin, Happy Jack, with whom he seldom agrees. Then he climbed a little higher in the hickory tree and ran out on a branch to get nut out near the tip. Happy Jack did the same thing on another limb. They didn't depend on finding nuts on the ground as Striped Chipmunk did. He can climb but not as his cousins can. He isn't really at home high in a tree. Perhaps Mother Nature wasn't so unfair in giving him those pockets after all," thought Peter.

The next story, "Striped Chipmunk's Thanksgiving."

VET HOUSING SNAGGED BY SINGLE BID

Ashland County Commissioners Await State Ruling.

ASHLAND—Progress in Ashland county's veterans housing program under the state appropriation came to a virtual halt today.

Ashland county commissioners, with only a single bid received by the deadline Monday noon, are awaiting legal advice from the state attorney general's office on the proposed offer of Harlan Budd of a site plus foundations and drives.

Ashland city council has shelved its decision on whether or not to donate utilities connections until informed of a definite location for the Ashland units. Council was asked last week by Howard S. Lutz, chairman of the housing advisory committee, to provide the utilities connections at city expense.

Lone bid presented to county commissioners was by Don Heter, Ashland plumbing contractor, affiliated with Joseph D. Angelo, Tiffin, distributor of pre-fabricated homes.

The proposal offered a two-family unit 48 by 20 feet erected at an estimated cost of $6,184 per unit. The units could be erected at this price only if a "federal demand priority" can be obtained, Heter told commissioners. Commissioners had been informed earlier that they could not expect to obtain such a priority.

The advisory committee has recommended the construction of three units in Ashland and two in Loudonville.

CRESTLINE D. OF A. WILL BE CO-HOSTS

CRESTLINE—The Good Hope council, Daughters of America, will be co-hosts with the Golden Link council of Galion and the Rainbow council of Leesville at the district meeting scheduled for Dec. 4 in Galion, Mrs. Wilbur McCune, local council president, said this week. Class initiation will feature the meeting.

Plans for the local council to move its meeting quarters to a second floor room of the Youth Center building on Nov. 29, were so announced. Members planning to assist will report in the kit at 1 p. m.

The next regular meeting will be held Dec. 13, when election of officers will take place. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. R. L. Hoffman, Mrs. Paul Yimemiller and Miss Helen Levy.

Students at Shelby Form FFA Chapter

SHELBY—A chapter of the Future Home Makers of America has been organized in the eighth grade here with Mrs. Frieda Weaver as its sponsor.

Donna Cooper has been chosen president of the group. Other officers selected were: Norma Gearhart, vice president; Bonnie Crain, treasurer; and Doris Stoffer, historian.

ELLIOTT CALLS U. S. WRONG, RUSSIA RIGHT

Magazine Claims Roosevelt
Favors Soviet Policies.

NEW YORK—(U)—The magazine Newsweek quoted "a reliable individual" today as saying that Elliott Roosevelt had made a pro-Russian speech at a Moscow reception given by a member of the American embassy staff.

The reception, Newsweek said, was in honor of the Russian chief of the American division of the All-Union Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries.

The magazine said its informant was present at the reception and it quoted him as follows:

"Elliott started off by explaining that foreign correspondents have no more freedom in the United States than they have in Russia."

"The United States, Elliott continued, has no business meddling in the Danube area. Surely, he pleaded, American boys did not go to war to establish an international regime on the Danube. The same goes for the Dardanelles, he said. Obviously, the Russians must have predominant control of the Black sea straits. They would be foolish to agree to internationalization unless the United States agrees to internationalize the Panama Canal and Britain accepts an international regime over Suez and Gibraltar."

"Elliott also thought that the Soviet Union had never broken its word. While the United States and Britain repeatedly violated their pledges at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam, the Soviets faithfully observed theirs."

"Elliott ended the disclosure with a challenge to the audience. 'Can anyone here,' he demanded, 'name one instance in which the United States acted to further the cause of peace?' After a momentary hush an American correspondent suggested: had not the United States done everything to strengthen the power and prestige of the United Nations? But Elliott was ready for that one. 'You know as well as I do,' he told the questioner, 'that the United States is supporting the UN for purely selfish and imperialistic reasons.'"

Steel is your best Bargain

THE PICTURE IN STEEL
1939 vs. THIRD QUARTER 1946

PRODUCTION UP 55%

WEEKLY WAGES UP 63%

STEEL PRICES UP 18%
OR LESS THAN HALF A CENT PER POUND

STEEL is used in making most of the things you buy—from paper clips to automobiles and refrigerators.

Higher labor and other costs have pushed up the price of almost everything you buy. But steel has gone up much less than most other products.

Since 1939 steel prices have risen less than 18 per cent,* compared with 44 per cent* for consumers' prices generally.

At an average price of only three cents a pound, steel is the lowest priced of all the metals.

Steel is your best bargain.

Barclay On Bridge

"Block that kick!" is now being heard throughout the land of the pigskin as the waning football season attains its climax. But that exclamation, and the companion "Hold that line!" have nothing on the No Trump "junction to 'Block that suit!'" It is especially timely when one of the declarer's two holdings contains an established thirteenth of a suit, together with a doubtful chance for an entry to score it. The defense's job then is to see that the declarer gets blocked from a chance to use that insignificant but crucial trick-taker.

Naturally refusing to lead either of the bid suits of spades or diamonds, West properly preferred the major hearts to the minor clubs, selecting the 3. The J won it. South finessed the spade 10 to the J, then reached his hand on the spade return and finessed the heart Q, then set up his thirteenth with the A, which dropped the K. He scored the spade K and Q, then led the club J.

There came the critical play, though West didn't know it as he took the trick with his K. The diamond 4 to the 9 was won by the 10, and East returned the Q to the A. East now took the club 5 with the A, but had to return a club to the Q. The heart 8 then made the game trick for South.

If West had refused to win the club J on the eighth trick, South could never have reached his hand. With the dummy taking that trick, West could have won the second club and East the third, thus preventing South from reaching his own hand to use the set-up heart thirteenth. Thus he could not have scored more than eight tricks and would have been down one.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. "In America, the People Smile"

A distinguished foreign visitor was asked what one thing about America impressed him most. "That's easy," he replied. "In America, the people smile."

Smiles come readily to people who are free...who enjoy the world's highest standard of living. And, rightly, Americans set a day apart at this season to give thanks for the freedom and plenty that are theirs.

They give thanks to those whose pioneering courage and self-reliance opened up their land, brought its broad reaches together under one flag and made that flag a world-wide symbol of liberty and opportunity.

They give thanks to those whose thrift and enterprise built the greatest industrial system in history...and with it transformed the natural wealth of America into comforts and conveniences for all the people.

For the bountiful harvest...for the matchless products of its factories...for the privileges, and the duties, of free men—the opportunity to live, work and save as each desires—for all these, America gives thanks. For these, the people smile.

Drive carefully tomorrow—a holiday always increases traffic hazards, so be on the lookout.

More sugar is promised for 1947—also more butter—which follows the old idea that there should always be something pleasant to look forward to.

A West Coast optimist prescribes "an epidemic of laughter" as a remedy for national ills—but it looks so silly to indulge in hearty laughter over something that isn't funny.

Shall Government Or Anarchy Prevail?

ASSUMING, for the moment, that all law-respecting Americans recognize the necessity of conforming to laws designed to preserve orderly government, it seems reasonable to suggest that intelligent people should be able to devise ways to settle differences between employees and employers in the same way that disputes between individuals or business firms are settled—by court decision, in the event of failure of mediation efforts.

The recent and present wave of strikes, climaxed by the walkout of 400,000 soft coal miners, serves to make this the topmost subject of public discussion, with a very general feeling that "something must be done about it" if the United States is to continue in its position of world leadership and in maintenance of the highest standards of living ever attained in world history.

In their original intent, strikes were sanctioned as a last desperate resort of mistreated workers verging on starvation . . . as was the case in the early days of coal mining.

Now a strike has become no more than a part of routine procedure in enforcing demands of labor leaders, without regard to practicability of the demands or to the serious effects a work stoppage may have on the public. Even such things as disputes over "jurisdiction" of competing unions have resulted in strikes, and the "sympathy strike" has become either a reality or a threat in many instances.

While a change from the present muddled situation will prove difficult, due to determined efforts of some labor leaders to block even mild restraint, and the inclination of some interests to impose over-drastring laws, some sensible solution seems within the bounds of present intelligence.

Some cities and states have done a better job of providing processes of mediation and arbitration of labor disputes than has the federal government, and these may serve as a pattern which can be expanded to fit the national picture. Dissatisfied workers, first having access to collective bargaining with their employers, might then seek impartial arbitration of the issues involved—which has frequently brought amicable settlement of differences.

As a final resort, however, there could be a federal "labor court," especially devoted to handling disputes in which collective bargaining and arbitration failed.

Successful functioning of such a plan would naturally presuppose respect for courts by all parties concerned, and willing compliance with court decisions—that being a requisite to any form of orderly government and necessary in avoiding anarchy . . . of which the coal miners' strike strongly savors.

More Experiments In Democracy

JAPAN AND FRANCE are struggling with new constitutions. Both, though differently, are expressions of the concept of democracy spreading through the world.

The Japanese people had their handed them by conquerors acting as liberators, surely an unusual happening for a defeated nation. The new order is revolutionary. A people who had worshipped their emperor as an all-powerful god, now are themselves sovereign. For the first time Nippon's men—and women, too—have rights as to work and wages, franchise, education, place of residence. They have freedom of speech, of religion, of assembly.

Many students of Japan feel that the country's apparent ready and docile adjustment to these changes is, to a considerable extent, superficial and aimed to quicken withdrawal of foreign forces. This is one reason for the long term plans of the United States for occupying Japan. A new generation must grow up, trained in democracy.

In France, self-government is an old idea. The new constitution includes very free interpretations of human rights. Great power rests with the national assembly, roughly corresponding to the American house of representatives. There is recognition of collective bargaining, control of strikes, the participation of workers in management, and provision for nationalization of certain industries.

There is provision for "limitation of sovereign power necessary to the organization of peace." This opens the way for a United Nations to function as a world unit—a very long step indeed.

Training Veterans As Retailers

THOSE Veteran-Retailer conferences that have come into vogue over the country are being found valuable by veterans who aspire to either conduct a business of their own or to prepare for capable work in existing stores—large or small.

It is becoming more generally recognized that successful operation of a business requires specialized knowledge that must be gained by study, training and experience. Purpose of the Veteran-Retailer conferences, first of which was held in Altoona, Pa., last July, is to instruct veterans in the principles of business operation, so that they may avoid pitfalls such as have wrecked many promising enterprises.

Progressive retail stores have long realized the advantage of maintaining a well-trained personnel in all departments and the return of competition in the post-war era will tend to give even greater emphasis to the importance of this phase of merchandising.

That Amazing Benjamin Franklin

STILL another talent of Benjamin Franklin has been revealed. A string quartet number composed by him has been found in a Paris bookstore, and is to be played in Franklin's old home town of Philadelphia.

The discovery should not be surprising. Few men have been more versatile than Franklin. Author, editor, printer, statesman, postmaster-general, diplomat, scientist and inventor, he learned how to do many things well. And now he is shown to have also been a composer.

A classic Chinese novel winds up every chapter in this way: "If you do not know what follows, you must read the next chapter." A lot of present-day novels need encouragement like this to make the reader continue.

ROAD TO ANARCHY

Seething Balkans Again Prove An Obstacle To Permanent Peace

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

THE British-backed Greek government's fight to maintain the monarchy in the face of heavy Communist onslaughts from various directions has reached a pitch which threatens to raise barbed international questions—specifically for the Big Three and in general for the whole United Nations.

Sources close to Premier Tsaldaris have said that he hoped to present personally to the U. S. security council complaints about the alleged violation of the Greek frontier along the Albanian-Yugoslav-Bulgarian borders.

These informants said Tsaldaris had delayed making the complaints because he desired to raise any new issues between Russia and the Western Allies.

At the same time Greek War Minister Dragoumis declared in Salonika that "Greece has decided to fight for her independence and democracy—at any cost. We cannot accept a totalitarian system, which is contrary to our character and tradition."

However, Premier Tsaldaris, after conferring with the king of the Hellenes, said he didn't "know when, where and if" a Greek complaint of border violations would be lodged with the U. N. He added that this hinged on "developments in the course of evolution."

One wonders whether this means the premier has been advised by England to go slow with complaints, because Europe already is running a fever. But that's merely speculation on my part—based on the undoubted fact that an outbreak of war there could precipitate another global conflict.

You don't need a telescope to see what is going on there. Greece is the last of the countries on the Balkan peninsula not communized and under the control of Moscow. Greece's entire northern frontier lies up against red territory—Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Romania came even more solidly into the Soviet ranks last week through her general election which was announced as having registered a Red majority.

Minister of War Dragoumis after visiting northern Greece charged that the disorders in Macedonia and western Thrace were "inspired and directed" by agents trained in Yugoslavia and moved into Greece by three routes: through Albania, direct from Yugoslavia, and into Thrace through the mountainous area near our eastern frontier—that is, from Bulgaria.

There you have the makings of a first-class Balkan war. As a matter of fact, if General Dragoumis has his information straight, the war already is under way to all intents.

In any event, there is rebellious violence in many parts of Greece, quite apart from anything which might come down on her from the Red north.

There can be no possible doubt that the Balkan Communists intend to bring Greece into their fold if it is humanly possible. Greece is a highly strategic base militarily—among other things representing Britain's only toe-hold in on Balkan peninsula.

The big question of course is this: what attitude would Russia and England adopt if Greece should become embroiled in war with her sovietized neighbors on the north? It is conceivable that both great powers might announce a hands-off policy, knowing full well that if either of them made a hostile move the third World war would be under way. In that case unhappy little Greece would be swallowed up.

Would Britain stand for that? It's safe to say the answer to this question is being sought by the chancelleries of many nations.

One thing seems very sure—that the sovietized neighbors of Greece will gamble daringly in an effort to communize her.

Some Facts About High Blood Pressure.

THE BEST thing we know about high blood pressure today is that one doesn't have to die of it. In fact, according to Dr. Albert Weinstein of Tennessee, the mere finding that a patient has high blood pressure does not mean that his life will be shortened.

Many, many such people can look forward not only to the normal span of life but can, with slight restrictions, enjoy it in the normal way. Barring accidents, the person with high blood pressure can usually be expected to live at least the calculated average life-span of 65 years.

In the years since the turn of the century, when it first became possible to make accurate measurements of the blood pressure, we have learned a great deal about the problem of high blood pressure and yet its exact cause still remains a mystery.

Those Who Are Overweight.

We know that it has a tendency to run in families, and that it apparently occurs more often in those who are overweight than in those who are normal or underweight.

There are certain diseases which seem to cause high blood pressure, but in the great majority of cases—95 per cent—there seems to be no discoverable cause for the condition. This type of high blood pressure is known as essential hypertension.

In view of the fact that the exact cause of all cases of high blood pressure has not been found, it is to be expected that a variety of treatments should be employed for it.

Dr. Weinstein believes that the best form of treatment is to have the patient develop sensible habits of living and working, to be moderate in all things, to limit the use of tobacco when it is found that it does raise the blood pressure.

He advises against taking the blood pressure too often and against fixing in the patient's mind that his blood pressure is so many points above normal.

A well-balanced, moderate diet should be employed, and an effort made to bring the patient's weight to a normal level.

No Public Financing of Strikes.

A review shows that unemployment compensation laws in a great majority of the states do not permit the payment of benefits to workers on strike. It would be a monstrous perversion of justice if they did. It would leave the states in the position of financing and virtually promoting strikes.

The question is brought up now because of the coal strike. Consider the position of the states affected if they began paying benefits to the miners who had walked off their jobs. They are of course on strike against the government, since the government controls the mines. Such a strike is in violation of federal statutes. If the states paid out benefits to these men they would be encouraging and prolonging the strike against the government.

Unemployment insurance is designed as an aid to people who are out of work through no fault of their own. Employers pay taxes to supply the funds. Neither they nor the people as a whole expect the money to be used in promotion of the idleness it is designed to relieve.—Kansas City Times.

Ukrainian Shot In N. Y. Holdup Was Using Store As 'Drop-Box'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Neither side will admit the real facts, but there was semi-humorous tragedy behind the shooting of Ukrainian delegate Gregory Stadnik in a New York delicatessen shop last week.

Stadnik was using the delicatessen for what is known in the intelligence game as a "drop box"—a prearranged point where foreign intelligence officers can leave a message which they want to go back to their country without passing through the regular mails.

Stadnik had been using someone in the New York delicatessen to send messages back to Moscow, and that is the real reason why the Ukrainian delegation has registered a stiff official protest with the state department, claiming that the shooting of Stadnik was a political crime.

The Russians honestly believe that the hold-up of the obscure delicatessen shop was staged because the U. S. government knew Stadnik was using it as a "drop box" and wanted to retaliate. They can't conceive that such a robbery would have taken place otherwise. However, they can't come out and state the reason for their suspicion.

Actually, U. S. officials did know that Stadnik was using the delicatessen shop as a drop box, but his messages contained little that could not be read in the American newspapers, and the last thing U. S. officials would do would be to stage a political shooting.

The robbery was purely a petty New York hold-up, though no one will ever be able to convince the Russians of that fact. Stadnik was hit in the thigh and not seriously injured.

This Is Justice.

When Assistant Attorney General John Sonnett appeared in federal court to ask that John L. Lewis be cited for contempt, he had worked for three days and most of three nights. Parking his car, he faced a battery of photographers, and went inside to bring justice on the nation's leading lawbreaker.

After getting Judge Alan Goldsborough to cite Lewis for contempt and order him to appear in court the following Monday, Sonnett left the courthouse and returned to his car, only to find that a local cop had given him a ticket, ordering him to appear in court on Friday. Said Sonnett:

"So this is justice. You can get arrested more easily for illegally parking your car than for tying up the whole United States of America."

Coal Mine Accidents.

One of John L. Lewis's big kicks against private coal operators last spring—and a justifiable one—was the refusal to adopt federal mine inspection. This, he claimed, was one reason for heavy mine accidents.

However, since the federal government has had the mines, it has enforced its own standards—despite the objection of private operators. These new, stricter safety standards have caused a drop of about 10 per cent in the number of men killed.

In the first three months of 1946, when the mines were under private operation, 233 men were killed in mine accidents.

From August 15 to November 1, when the federal safety code was in effect, 216 men were killed—a figure which bears mute testimony to the hazards of coal mining, despite strict safety laws.

About half the men were killed in roof cave-ins and so-called "face falls" (coal slides). Government regulations to prevent these accidents, such as stronger shoring of roofs, are much stricter than the standards set by the states while the mines were privately operated. Federal inspectors also are much more thorough about detecting gas conditions in coal mines.

Though accident casualties were less, the government also produced more coal than the private operators in the comparative three-month periods.

In the first three months of 1946, approximately 160,860,000 tons were dug. Thus the fatal accident rate per million tons dug was 1.45.

In August, September and October, approximately 161,910,000 tons were dug, making the fatal accident rate per million tons 1.31.

"Battle of the Books" Getting Underway.

WASHINGTON—You will find this hard to believe but Communism raised its ugly head even in the Plymouth settlement, back in 1623. The second governor of that Massachusetts colony, William Bradford, tells about it in that remarkable document which is his history of the trials and tribulations of the little band that settled on the stern New England shores.

It was naturally not an ideological dispute. These people were confronted with the grim necessity for survival in an alien land. They had begun by tilling communal ground, with the crop divided equally among all the families.

But that did not work very well. Governor Bradford tells us:

"At length after much debate, the Governor, with the advice of the chief among them, allowed each man to plant corn for his own household, and to trust to themselves for that; in all other things to go on in the general way as before. So every family was assigned a parcel of land, according to the proportion of their number, with that in view—for present purposes only, and making no division for inheritance—all boys and children being included under some family.

"This was very successful. It made all hands very industrious, so that much more corn was planted than otherwise would have been by any means the Governor or any other could devise, and saved him a great deal of trouble, and gave far better satisfaction. The women now went willingly into the field, and took their little ones with them to plant corn, while before they would allege weakness and inability; and to have compelled them would have been thought great tyranny and oppression.

"The failure of this experiment of communal service, which was tried for several years, and by good and honest men, proves the emptiness of the theory of Plato and other ancients, applauded by some of later times—that the taking away of private property, and the possession of it in community, by a commonwealth, would make a state happy and flourishing; as if they were wiser than God. For in this instance, community of property (so far as it went) was found to breed much confusion and discontent and retard much employment which would have been to the general benefit and comfort."

As the fall wore on that third year of the settlement, the good Governor could report:

"Harvest time had now come, and then instead of famine, God gave them plenty, and the face of things was changed to the rejoicing of the hearts of many, for which they blessed God. And the effect of their particular planting was well seen, for all had, one way or another, pretty well to bring the year about, and some of the abler sort and more industrious had to spare, and sell to others—in fact, no general want or famine has been amongst them since, to this day."

One of the heritages we are thankful for is the individual initiative that set us, as a people, pioneering across the continent. But we sometimes forget that there is another heritage almost equally strong. It is the heritage of co-operation.

The barn-raising, the husking-bee, the quilting-party, were as important to the men and women who shaped this country as the lonely courage of the pioneer. Community endeavor—a kind of Communism, if you will—was essential to the survival of the Plymouth settlement.

Out of the need for co-operation and the strain of idealism that is so important apart of the American character, have come many experiments in communal living. Brook Farm, New Harmony, the Oneida Community, all flourished for a time and then withered away when the impulse had spent itself.

It was regarded as the inalienable right of every American to be as eccentric as he might choose to be.

These experiments are part of the American story, just as much a part as the saga of the individual. We are in danger of making a golden calf of the individual and individualism.

That is a distortion which does violence to the American heritage. It tends to produce screaming egos with nothing more than an appetite for power. If we have lost the capacity to co-operate for the common good, then we have lost the cement that bound our society together.

Farmer's Diary: "One Man's Farm."

THE SIGN said POTATOES in good plain homemade print. It had no claim to art, but modestly advertised its product, high on a corner post of the wire fence beside the gravelled road. "First lane to the left," it said, and the name of the grower.

I turned the old car into the long lane and drove back to the old farmhouse with its clustering barn and many outbuildings. Everything was quiet. Fields were cropped and the harvest stored away. At the left, on a slope that led down to the brook, was a temporary corn crib. It was full of yellow corn. A permanent double crib beside the barn also showed yellow through the slits.

Through the open door of the barn floor, I glimpsed the heavy duty tractor and other equipment. The mows were full of hay. Out in the pasture lay a score or more of whiteface steers. There seemed to be no hogs.

I walked in toward the open door of the woodshed built on the west side of the farmhouse. Inside I heard heavy steps, and then a tall young man came out to greet me.

"Have you potatoes, as advertised?" I asked him.

"We sure do," he responded, and led me to the large cellar storage, three fourths underground. Half the west side was piled to the joists with "run of the patch."

Near the door were hundred pound bags and the grader stood just beyond. They were large, solid spuds heaped loosely in a natural, cool location. They smelled good.

"How many acres did you plant?" I asked him.

"Fifteen," he told me, a bit proudly.

"What will you do with those large cribs of corn?"

"We haven't a hog on the place,"

he said, somewhat regretfully. "But those 20 whiteface steers will take care of part of it, and the hay in the mow, as well. My dad and I farm together. With our equipment, we could handle more acreage but it doesn't pay to spread too far around."

Looking at the large pile of buzz wood they had ready for winter fuel, it seemed these farmers would be well set to enjoy the closed-in winter months when snow and mud make roads impassable.

With milk, eggs, canned fruit, home-cured meats, potatoes, and garden truck and plenty of feed for stock, a farm family need not go to a city very often.

He loaded the bag of potatoes onto my front bumper. "Come back when you need more," he suggested. "We'll be right here all winter."

Joan Hiser and J. E. Gentile Set Yuletide Wedding Date

ANOTHER in the growing list of brides who will marry during the Christmas holidays is Miss Joan Hiser whose engagement to Joseph E. Gentile was announced last night by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hiser, 250 South Main street.

Miss Hiser and Mr. Gentile, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gentile, sr., 203 Miller street, will wed Dec. 28 in an open church ceremony in St. Peter's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m.

Announcement of the engagement was made at a bridge party last night at Houston's Tea Room. Pictures of the couple were distributed as Miss Linda Lee Wilson sang lyrics containing the engagement details to the tune of "Jingle Bells" and "For Me and My Gal."

Both Miss Hiser and Mr. Gentile are graduates of St. Peter's high school. The bride-elect is employed at the Remi Metal Products company while Mr. Gentile is an employee of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

The ceremony will be officiated by Rev. J. E. O'Connell, pastor of St. Peter's church.

The bride was graduated from Robert E. Lee high school. She attended Ohio Institute of Technology.

For 3½ years, Mr. Fendrick served in the U. S. Marine Air Corps.

The bride has been employed at the Cooper-Bessemer plant in Mt. Vernon, and Mr. Kehrwecker is employed at the Hydraulic Manufacturing company in Mt. Gilead. The couple will live in Westfield.

Fashion Notes From the Treble Choir Concert

The eyes as well as the ears of the audience attending the concert given by the Treble choir sponsored by Chapter AT of POE last night at John Simpson Junior high were given a treat.

Mrs. George Hall who directed her first Treble choir concert last night chose for the occasion a black satin gown with a slim skirt caught in back with two bows of satin. The modified square neckline was draped and caught at the sides with jeweled clips.

Miss Thelma Reed, who with Mrs. Hall presented a number of duo piano arrangements, was gowned in slim black crepe trimmed with chartruse inserts diagonally across the bodice ending in loops at the right shoulder.

Miss Gloria Morton complemented her blonde hair with a white silk jersey bodice with cap sleeves and full net flounce from the low waistline trimmed in white taffeta. The full skirt ended in a wide white taffeta band.

Mrs. W. C. Hazelline of Springfield, O., former director and organizer of the choir who conducted a part of the program, selected a black crepe skirt draped slightly in front with a turquoise crepe blouse with large dots of gold lame in the material made with long sleeves and a keyhole neckline.

Miss Joan Solomon wore a gold sequin choker to match the band of gold sequins which edged the black jersey bodice of her gown. The skirt was white net.

Accompanying the ensemble was Miss Louise Krause whose full black taffeta skirt was topped with a blouse of black sheer trimmed at the yoke with rows of gold braid.

Miss Shirley Bauer was dressed in delicate yellow crepe with cap sleeves and a high neckline. The skirt was gathered into deep folds at the hip line with green and white flowers inserted in the folds.

The choir was directed by Mrs. George Hall.

Prizes were won by Mrs. George Connor, Miss Thelma Hursh, and Miss Mary Butler.

The guest list included Miss Ruth Jaber, Mrs. Connor, Mrs. R. E. McFadden, Mrs. C. C. Tansel, Mrs. Mervin Clark, Mrs. Robert Morrow, Mrs. Maurice Stearns and Miss Ilo Cooperider.

A regular business meeting of the group will be held Dec. 3 in municipal court room.

The closed church wedding ceremony of Miss Esther Marie Deems and Vernon E. Schindler will take place in St. John's Evangelical church.

The Ontario Community church will be the scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Snyder and Francis P. Patterson.

Miss Virginia Altomonte will become the bride of Wayne Sweval in the 8:15 mass of St. Peter's Catholic church.

The bride was graduated from Robert E. Lee high school. She attended Ohio Institute of Technology.

Bring the spirit of harvest-time into your homes, with these striking arrangements perfectly suited for autumn entertaining and Thanksgiving tables. Upper left—An all-foliage creation of shellacked strelitzia leaves, silvered grape foliage, red pepper berries and enameled white twigs. Top right—Mauve pompons and pink snapdragons in an amethyst pedestal dish. Pheasant feathers, grapes and bearded wheat add the symbolic touches of a bountiful autumn. Below—Bronze, copper, yellow and maroon pompons are clustered in a luxuriant harvest display of fruit, gourds, Indian corn, grain and painted weeds.

Mrs. A. C. Tuttle spoke on "Bread Upon the Waters" a discussion of the problem of world food controls at the meeting of the Tourist club Tuesday at the Women's Club. Mrs. Weldon P. Close was hostess.

Mrs. Tuttle noted that the Food and Agricultural Organization under the UN hopes to expand the world production of cereals and promote higher standards of nutrition. The program included methods of irrigation, clearing and drainage of land, flood control, canning centers, refrigeration, better marketing regulations and pure food laws.

The Dec. 17 meeting will have Mrs. B. W. Forkner as hostess at the Women's Club.

The Moose home was the scene of the covered dish dinner last night of the Hospital guild of the Women of the Moose. Hostesses were Mrs. Frank Detwiler and Mrs. Paul Ritchie. Prizes were won by Mrs. Fred Lewis, a guest, Mrs. Samuel Faulkner and Mrs. Charles May.

Mrs. Glenn Wehinger and her committee were in charge of the meeting of the Daughters of Isabella Tuesday evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Paul Snyder, Miss Florence Snyder, Mrs. R. C. Straub, Mrs. Joseph Shiska, and Miss Geneva Buzenski. Dec. 10 the organization will have a Christmas party and exchange with Miss Jerry Madden in charge.

More About Ages — No topic touched on by this typewriter in recent months has elicited as much comment from the fans as the seemingly fascinating subject of film stars' ages.

Margaret W. Murphy, of White Plains, N. Y., asks: "I am wondering if you would help me settle an argument: My mother insists that Paulette Goddard once acted in a silent picture with Charlie Chaplin many, many years ago. Paulette is a 'special' with me. I like her very much and I can't believe she is anywhere near the age she'd have to be if she was in silent pictures. I seem to remember her in a picture with Charlie Chaplin, 'The Wal' or something, but that was a talkie, wasn't it? If you will help me out in this matter, I'll be eternally grateful.

You win, Mrs. Murphy. Paulette is definitely of the talking picture era. She broke into the movies when she was in her late teens, so she has been on the screen for almost half her lifetime, but she's still not ancient. Oddly enough, she isn't listed in Who's Who, but I'm sure she's not much further along than her early thirties.

I have a few statistics for the reader who was curious about

PILES ARE NEVER MILD

DANGER IN NEGLECT — No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Hollywood males. Bing Crosby, third of his favorite, is 42. So is Sam C. Co. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. is 36 and Paul Muni is 34. Gene Autry tells people he was born in 1907. Robert Taylor arrived on this soil in 1910. Both Alfred Hitchcock and Phil Asmire are 47, although Phil looks younger because he's swifter. A 1918 movie magazine, Picture-Play, said Richard Barthelmess was 23 then, which would make him 51 now. Robert Montgomery is 42.

Saking of ages—and the confusion and uncertainty surrounding one of the players' birthdays—Miel Jackson of New York City's reminded of other statistics that frequently are muddled. She writes: "I enjoyed so much reading your column about the age of movie stars. Got an especially hearty laugh out of your contention that Ingrid Bergman is 25, 27, 28, 29 or 30.

"Is letter has nothing to do with ages, rather with the shamelessness that publicity agents and movie magazines tamper with the height and weight measurements of movie stars.

"There is no combination of letters this typewriter which can express what I feel when I look at the accompanying chart and read that Ingrid Bergman is 5'6" tall and weighs 120 pounds. I have never seen Ingrid in person, and I have certainly never measured her but I am reasonably sure that she's closer to 5'11" tall and from 135 to 140 lbs. in weight.

"According to a chart in a recent movie magazine Humphrey Bogart is 5'11". I remember very clearly though that the supposedly 5'6" Miss Bergman wore flat shoes and practically ate off Bogart's head in 'Casablanca'.

"And are they trying to tell me that James Cagney is taller than Ingrid. I don't believe it!"

Harriet Hartnet of Baldwin, N. Y., wants to know about Spencer Tracy, Nelson Eddy, Errol Flynn and Bob Hope. Well, Spencer Tracy was born in Milwaukee in 1900, and Errol Flynn was born in Tasmania in 1909. Nelson Eddy is 45. But Bob Hope isn't telling his.

Research on Greer Garson is continuing.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

Edgar Bergen made his radio debut in 1936 when he managed to engineer an audition for the guest spot on the Rudy Vallee program.

The sponsor declared audibly that anybody who thought a ventriloquist could hold a radio audience's attention was screwy as a bird dog. Bergen was so nervous that he almost dropped his precious Charlie McCarthy and muffed several lines in the script.

The sponsor chortled derisively. An assistant waved a copy of the script at Bergen and said, "Here's your place." Bergen nodded and the assistant moved away. "Hey," yelled Charlie, "let me have a gander at that script." The young man wheeled about and unthinkingly thrust the script before the wooden dummy's eyes.

The sponsor stared at the spectacle, muttered, "I'll be darned."

and ordered, "Make out a contract for that guy."

A patron of the automat watched a man pour eight spoonfuls of sugar (Gosh, remember?) into his coffee, and then start drinking without stirring it. "Why don't you stir that coffee?" he asked. The other regarded him coldly and answered, "Who likes it sweet?"

UPSET STOMACH

"Pepto-Bismol is good for that"

Never upset an upset stomach with overdoses of antacids or harsh physics. Be gentle with it. Take soothing PEPTO-BISMOL. Not a laxative. Not an antacid. It calms and soothes your upset stomach. Pleasant to the taste — children love it. Ask your druggist for PEPTO-BISMOL when your stomach is upset.

A NORWICH PRODUCT

In addressing a card always prefix a title to the name of a person. Even a small child should be addressed as either "Master" or "Miss" on an envelope.

How every truck-using business can increase its distribution efficiency

A NATION-WIDE STUDY of Distribution Efficiency in all major truck-using industries has just been completed by The White Motor Company. The study has extended over the past six most critical years in truck history. It has produced a definite System by which any business can create for itself increased distribution efficiency, lowered costs and better service to the public.

THE CONTINUING CONTROL SYSTEM OF TRUCK MANAGEMENT is White's name for it, because it is based on the three continuing factors which control truck efficiency from the day service starts. It applies to all makes of trucks and all types of business.

FOR MORE THAN 45 YEARS, ever since the start of truck transportation, the name White has been associated with pioneering leadership. And in White's opinion, no step it has ever taken in the past, to extend the usefulness of trucks to new fields of industry, has been more important than the one it is taking now—to help every field of industry avail itself of all that modern truck transportation has to offer when it is properly applied, maintained and used. White believes that perhaps never again will so many truck owners be in more logical position with respect to worn-out equipment on hand to make a thorough reappraisal of their transportation requirements in the light of their exact needs and take full advantage of the bettered service and lowered cost which properly applied trucks, correctly maintained and driven, can provide.
